

This is a series of clips put together by the USGS, showing video from a bear with a camera on its collar. This is in the public domain, partly because it is a U.S. government work, and partly because animals can't be copyright holder. Sorry, polar bears!

Source: <https://www.usgs.gov/media/videos/pov-polar-bear-collar-cam-b-roll-2019-2021-and-2022>

Title: POV Polar Bear Collar Cam B-roll 2019, 2021, and 2022

By: Alaska Science Center FEBRUARY 2, 2024

This is what ChatGPT thinks a sad polar bear would look like in this situation.

(Prompt: Draw an image of a polar bear, holding a TV camera, who looks sad because it was just told it was not eligible for copyright.)

